

Dear FCC Commissioners & Staff:

I have had, happily, internet service provided by a local ISP named Iglou for the past five plus years.

Before I made my decision I had checked in great lenght as to the companies providing internet service and found that the local provider, Iglou, offered much better assistance in helping me first get onto the internet and has then provided me with better support (my Dad has AOL and I get calls from him for help with his internet connection!)over the years. Live, local, friendly people that can be had at most hours of the day, good connection rates, less expensive, my screen is not filled up with a bunch of annoying c__p, leave my local provider alone!

Best regards,

Sincerely,
